The Emigrant.

LANCASTER, O., Dec. 15, 1868.

To the Editor of the Commercial:
Inclosed find a copy of "The Emigrant," the poem referred to by your Mississippi pictures in the paper of Friday last.
Yours truly,
C. M. L. URSEMAN

THE EMIGRANT.

My native hills, far, far away,
Your tops in living green are bright;
And meadow, glade and forest gray,
Back in the long, long summer light;
And blossoms still are gaily set
By shaded fount and rivulet.

Oh, that these feet again might tread
The slopes around my native home,
With grass and mingled blossoms spread,
Where cool the western breezes come
To fan the fainting traveler's brow—
Alas, I almost feel them now.

Would that mine eyes again might see
Those planted fields and forests deep—
The fall grass waving like a sea—
The dashing brooks—and o'er them bent
The high and boundless firmament.

Fairest the scenes that round me lie;
Bright shines the glad and glorious sun,
And sweetly crimsoned is the sky
At twilight, when the day is done:
And the same stars look down at even
That glitter in my native heaven.

On wide savannahs, round me spread,
A thousand blossoms meet my eye;
The red rose weeps its blood,
As balmy winds go dancing by;
And wild deer on the green hills play,
That rise in dimness far away.

Majestic these streams that glitter,
O'ershadowed by continued wind,
Saved where the lone glade opens wide—
Where erst the Indian hunter stood;
But sweeter streams with sweeter song
In home's green valley glide along.

And there, when summer's heaven is clear,
Sweet voices echo through the air;
For children's feet press softly near,
And joyous hearts are beating there,
While I, afar from home and rest,
Through the vast rivers of the West.

Oh, in my dreams, before me rise
Fair visions of those scenes so dear—
The cottage homestead, the vale, the sky—
And rippling currents, grey and blue,
Like sound of music, that fall
Through the long miles of the night.

As down the deep Ohio's stream
We glide before the whispering wind,
Though all is lovely as a dream,
My wandering thoughts still turn behind
To the loved, the blessed shore,
Where dwell the friends I meet no more.

Feminine Amicities.

A man's foes are those of his own household and the keenest enemies of women are women themselves. No one can inflict such humiliation on a woman as a woman can when she chooses; for if the art of high-handed snubbing belongs to men, that of subtle wounding is peculiarly feminine, and is practised by the best bred of the sex. Women are always more or less antagonistic to each other. They are gregarious in fashions and emulative in follies, but they cannot combine; they never support their weak sisters; they shrink from those who are stronger than the average, and if they would speak the truth boldly they would confess to a radical contempt for each other's intellect, which perhaps is the real reason why the sect of the "emancipated" command so small a following. Half a dozen ordinary men advocating "emancipation" doctrines would do more toward leavening the whole bulk of womankind than any number of first-class women. Where they do stand by each other it is from instinctive or personal affection, rather than class solidarity. And this is one of the most striking distinctions of sex, and one cause, among others, why men have the upper hand, and why they are able to keep it. Certainly there are reasons, sufficiently good, why women do not more readily coalesce; and one is the immense difference between the two extremes—the silly being too silly to appreciate the wise and the weak too weak to bear the armor of the strong. There is more difference between the outsiders among women than there is between those among men; the feminine characteristic of exaggeration making a gap which the medium of average man fills. The ways of women with each other more than all else show the great difference between their morale and that of men. They flatter and coax as men could not do, but they are also more rude to each other than any man would be to his fellow. It is amazing to see the things they can do and will bear—things which no man would dream of standing, and which no man would dare to attempt. This is because they are not taught to respect each other, and because they have no fear of consequences. If one woman is insulted by another she cannot demand satisfaction or knock the offender down, and it is unladylike to wear and call names. She must bear what she can—repay in kind; but to do her justice, she repays in a manner undeniably effective and to the point. There is nothing very pronounced about the feminine mode of aggression and retaliation, and yet it is eloquent, and sufficient for its purpose. It may only be a stare, a shrug, a toss of the head; but women can throw an intensity of disdain into the simplest gesture which answers the whole end perfectly. The unobtrusive edginess and unflinching constancy with which one woman can stare down another is in itself an art that requires a certain amount of natural genius, as well as careful cultivation. She puts up her eye glass—not being short-sighted—and surveys the enemy standing two feet from her with a sublime contempt for her whole condition, or with a still more sublime ignoring of her existence altogether, that no words could give. If the enemy is sensitive and unused to the kind of thing she is absolutely crushed, destroyed for the time, and reduced to the most pitiable state of self-abasement. If she is of a tougher fiber, and has had some experience of feminine warfare, she returns the stare with a corresponding amount of contempt or of obnoxiousness; and from that moment a contest is begun which never ceases, and which continually gains in bitterness. The stare is the weapon of offence most in use among women, and is specially favored by the experienced against the younger and less seasoned. It is one of the instinctive arms native to the sex, and we have only to watch the introduction of two girls to each other to see this, and to learn how even in youth is begun the exercise which time and use raise to such deadly perfection.

In the conversation of women with each other we again meet with examples of their peculiar amenities to their own sex. They never refrain from showing how much they are bored; they contradict flatly, with the flimsiest veil of apology to hide their rudeness; and they interrupt; ruthlessly, whatever the subject in hand may be. One lady was giving another a minute account of how the bride looked yesterday when she was married to Mr. A., of somewhat formidable repute, and with whom, if report is to be trusted, her listener had had sundry tender passages which made the mention of his marriage a notoriously sore subject. "Ah! I see you have taken that old silk which Madame Josephine wanted to palm off on me last year," said the tortured listener brusquely, breaking into the narrative without a lead of any kind; and the speaker was silenced. In this case it was the interchange of doubtful courtesies, wherein neither deserved pity; but to make a disparaging remark about a gown, in revenge for turning the knife in a wound, was a thoroughly feminine manner of retaliation, and that would not have touched a man. Such shafts would fall blunted against the rugged skin of the coarser creature; and the date or pattern of a bit of cloth would not have told much against the loss of her lover. But, as most women passionately care for dress, their toilet is one of their most vulnerable parts. Ashamed to be unfashionable, they tolerate anything in each other rather than shabbiness or eccentricity, even when picturesque; hence a sarcastic allusion to the age of a few yards of silk is a return wound of considerable depth when cleverly given.

The introduction of womankind belonging to a favorite male acquaintance of lower social condition affords a splendid opportunity for the display of feminine amenity. The presentation cannot be refused, yet it is resented as an intrusion; and the smaller woman is made to feel that she has offended. "Another daughter, Mr. C. You must have a dozen daughters—surely," a peeress said disdainfully to a commoner whom personally she liked, but whose family she did not want to know. The poor man had but two, and this was the introduction of the second. Very painful to a high spirited gentleman must be the way in which a superior creature of this kind receives her, if not of the same set as herself. The husband of the inferior creature may be "adored" as men are adored by fashionable women who love only themselves, and care only for their own pleasures. Artist, man of letters, beau sabreur, he is the passing idler, the temporary toy of a certain circle; and his wife has to be tolerated for his sake, and because she is a lady and fit to be presented, though an outsider. So they patronize her till the poor woman's blood is on fire, or they snub her till she has no moral consistency left in her and is reduced to a mere mass of pulp. They keep her in another room where they talk to their intimates; or they admit her to their circle, where she is made to feel like a Gentile among the faithful, where either they leave her unspoken to altogether, or else speak to her on subjects quite apart from the general conversation as if she was incapable of understanding them on their own ground. They ask her to dinner without her husband and take care that there is no one to meet her whom she would like to see but they ask him when they are at their grandest, and express their deep regret that his wife (uninvited) can not accompany him. They know every turn and twist that can humiliate her if she has pretensions which choose to demolish. They praise her toilet for its good taste in simplicity, when she thinks she is one of the finest on an occasion on which no one can be too fine; they tell her that pattern of hers is perfect, and made just like the dear duchess's famous dress last season, when she believes that she has Madame Josephine's last freshly imported from Paris, they celebrate her dinner as the very perfection of a refined family dinner without parade or cost, though it has all been had from the crack confectioner's, and though the bill for the entertainment will cause many a day of family pinching. These are the things which women say to another when they wish to pain and humiliate and which pain and humiliate some more than would a positive disgrace. For some women are distressingly sensitive about these little matters. Their lives are made up of trifles, and a failure in a trifle is a failure in their object of life.

Women can do each other no end of despite in a small way in society, not to speak of mischief of a graver kind. A hostess who has a grudge against one of her guests can always insure a disappointing evening under cover of doing her supreme honor and paying her extra attention. If she sees the enemy engaged in a pleasant conversation with one of the male stars, down she swoops, and in the sweetest manner possible, carries her off to another part of the room to introduce her to some school girl who can only say yes or no in the wrong places—"who is doing for the honor of talking to you, my dear, or to some unfledged stripling who blushes and grows hot, and cannot stammer out two consecutive sentences, but who is presented as a rising genius, and to be treated with the consideration due to his future. As her persecution is done under the guise of extra friendliness, the poor victim cannot cry out, nor yet resist, but she knows that whenever she goes to Mrs. So and So's she will be seated next the stupidest man at table, and prevented from talking to any one she likes in the evening and that every visit to that lady is made in some occult manner unpleasant to her. And yet what has she to complain of? She cannot complain that her hostess trusts to her for help in the success of her entertainment, and moves her about the room as a perambulating attraction which she has to dispense fairly among her guests, lest some should be jealous of the others. She may know that the meaning is to annoy, but who can act on meaning as against manner? How crooked soever the first may be, if the last is straight the case falls to the ground, and there is no room for remonstrance.

Often women flirt as much to annoy other women as to attract men or amuse themselves. If a wife has crossed swords with a friend, and the husband is in any way endurable, her look out for retaliation. The woman she has offended will take her revenge by flirting more or less openly with the husband, all the while loading the enemy with flattery if she is afraid of her, or snubbing her without much disguise if she feels herself stronger. The wife cannot help herself unless things go too far for public patience. A jealous woman without proof is the butt of her society, and brings the whole world of women like a nest of wasps about her ears. If she is wise, she will ignore what she cannot laugh at; if sensible, she will fret; if vindictive, she will repay. Nine times out of ten she does the last, and may be, with interest; and so goes on the duel, though all the time the fighters appear to be most intimate friends, and the best possible terms together. But the range of these feminine amenities is not confined to women; it includes men as well; and women continually take advantage of their position to insult the stronger sex by saying to them things which can be neither answered nor resented. A woman can insinuate that you have just cheated at cards, with the quietest face and the gentlest voice imaginable; she can give you the lie direct as coolly as if she was correcting a misprint, and you cannot defend yourself. To brawl with her would be unbecoming, to contradict her is useless, and the sense of society does not allow you to show her active displeasure. In this instance the weaker creature is the stronger, and the most defenceless is the safest. You have only the rather questionable consolation of knowing that you are not singular in your discomfort, and that when she has made and that when she has made an end of you she will probably have a turn with your betters, and make them, too, dance to her piping, whether they like it or not. At all events, if she humiliates you she humiliates her sisters still more, and with the knowledge that, hardly handled as you have been, others are yet more severely dealt with, you must learn to be content, and to practice a grim kind of patience as well as nature will permit.

Something New in the Way of Cooking Stoves.

CULVER BROTHERS'

ELEVATED OVEN

Farmers' Cooking Stoves.

We have sold over 4,000 of the above

Cooking Stoves in Kentucky in the past 18 months, and about 300 from Frankfort in the last six weeks, and still the demand for them is on the increase. This

Stove is made of the best quality of new iron, and is finished in a very superior style.

We give below a few of the many recommendations that we are daily receiving from some of the citizens of the city and country, as to the superior quality of our stoves, and could add a hundred more, if deemed necessary. These gentlemen are favorably known to everybody, and in their own words, they say, "In this stove it is superlative to all others."

For information apply at Wat on's hotel.

Frankfort, Aug. 21, 1868.

I purchased one of Culver Brothers' Elevated

Oven for my Farm. It is a very good stove, and can be heated with less wood and does better baking in a shorter time, than any stove I have ever used before, besides being handsome and convenient.

CYNTHIANA NEWS.
CYNTHIANA, KY.
THURSDAY, JAN. 11, 1889.
A. J. MOREY, Editor.

Democratic. Right or wrong.

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS.

And its editor and proprietor, on this occasion to wish its readers a happy New Year, and to most respectfully thank them for their liberal patronage and steady adherence to its fortunes. The continued increase of new subscribers warrants us in saying that we have never felt that we were on a firmer foundation since the destruction of our office for our principles. We propose to make a better paper this year than last. Our office is situated on Main street, where we can be found prepared to do all kinds of job work with neatness and dispatch. Call and see us.

Legislature.

The General Assembly of Kentucky met last Tuesday, at Frankfort. We are not able to say what they intend to do, as Congress proposes to reconstruct the State immediately, or apply the Fourteenth amendment of their Constitution to the State. The Radical wing of the Republican Party, (and they are the majority,) are opposed to moving the disabilities of ex-Confederates, who are now holding office in this State, and unless this done Kentucky will be without officers to administer the State government. It may be necessary for the Legislature to pass laws or adopt protests, with reference to federal affairs, for just as certain darkness follows the sitting sun, so will this Congress enforce their new ideas upon us. We advise care and caution in all moves.

We recently heard a good thing on the magistracy of this county, that is if the magistrate whose action we heard of is a fair specimen. The magistrate first allowed a married woman, who had no separate estate, and who was living with her husband, to bring a suit in her own name without joining her husband. The defendant demurred to the proceeding for want of necessary parties plaintiff, and insisted that the husband ought to be joined with her; but the learned magistrate repelled all such trash as more nonsense and not law, and the trial proceeded. The plaintiff's husband, who was present managing the case for his wife was asked to call the witnesses and have them sworn; whereupon he (the husband), stepped forward and held up his hand and was duly sworn as a witness; and began to tell his tale, when the defendant again earnestly protested, and said he knew that was not law—but the grave and dignified Justice responded that "it had always been customary in this court to let every body swear that wanted to, and always to let husbands swear for wives, and wives for husbands." The defendant quitted the case thinking in his heart, as we have heard before, that some men might know all things, except the decision of a magistrate, and that, the devil himself couldn't even give a reasonable guess at.

A man in this county recently held a note of $15, and an account of 25 cents against his neighbor. He sued before a Justice of the Peace on both note and account, but did not join both together in the same warrant. We understand the defendant will resist the warrant on the account or ground that both note and account ought to have been joined in one warrant. The plaintiff will doubtless be compelled to pay about one dollar and sixty cents to get twenty-five.

Some weeks since we called to see our friend Maj. Curry, and family. They are now situated on Pike street, in their new and beautiful residence. It is built of brick and contains seven rooms and hall, and finished up in the latest and finest style. For convenience it is unsurpassed, and has palatial comforts about it not found in other residences. In short it is in every respect a desirable home.

Amos Morrison and Edward Jackson got into a drunken frolic on Christmas day, at Claysville, in this county, which did not break up until the former had killed the latter. This is the result of all drunkenness. The same day Morrison stabbed another man, whose life is despaired of, named Duncan. Many stories have been put in circulation about Morrison barricading himself at home, and refusing to be arrested—and that he had been freed by constable Bayless and refused to give himself up, &c., are all false. Mr. Bayless informs us that Morrison came to his house and gave himself up. He was brought to Cynthiana last Monday, and had an examining trial before Judge Curry on Tuesday, and was held to bail in the sum of $1200 to appear at the next Term of Criminal court, to answer the charge of manslaughter.

Morrison is a married man with one child. He served in the 18th Kentucky, federal troops. He is a small man, and in our judgment has a very good face. Mr. E. Jackson, the man he killed, was once a very respectable man, and did a considerable business in Claysville, in the country grocery and calico line; but latterly, we are sorry to say, has devoted himself to whisky—and that has carried him to his grave.

Whalen, is the father-in-law of Morrison. He killed Morrison's father in 1857—was tried and cleared.

We understand that an order has been received in this city, from the Revenue Department, at Washington, reducing the wages of storekeepers in class B, houses, from four to two dollars. This retrenchment move on the part of the government meets with general disapprobation, with those gentlemen in this section in government employ, and as far as we are able to judge, it should be condemned, for two dollars is not sufficient to defray the expenses of a gentleman in these days of high charges.

We presented our friend Col. Craddock, of the Paris Kentuckian, a portion of a Christmas gift which we received from the south. The Colonel made a handsome acknowledgment, as follows:

Capt. Morey, of the firm of Rosser and Morey, flourishing commission merchants of Selma, Ala., sent his brother, A. J. Morey, of the Cynthiana News, a couple of boxes of the finest cigars we ever smoked, and he very generously divided with us. Rosser & Morey were both true Confederate soldiers, and are well known to our mule dealers who buy feed at Selma. Col. Rosser is a brother of the noted Gen. Rosser, of Petersburg, Va.

Thos. Sims, shipped his large Bullock, weight 2,700 lbs., and a splendid heifer which weighed 1,640 lbs., from Shawhan's Station to Cincinnati where he sold the bullock for $300, and the heifer for $198.80 cents. When Tom had closed the contract and put his money in his pocket, he drew himself up a la Richard the Third, and exclaimed:—"Shine out fair sun upon the grass, that I may see my shadow while I pass."

We learn from the Frankfort Yeoman, that Ex-Gov. C. S. Morehead, died at his plantation, near Greenville, Washington county Mississippi, on Wednesday, Dec. 23rd, 1868. He was born in this state in 1802, and served the people faithfully in many honorable and responsible places.

Mr. Jacob Renaker, Jr., has returned from the East, where he has been on a trip to sell his large bullocks and other fine cattle. The bullock was sold in Philadelphia for $1,500. The balance of other stock was disposed of at fair figures in the same market.

Last Sunday, a young man, named Jefferson Martin, and comrades were hunting coons, and run one up a tree. In the chopping and falling of the tree to catch the coon, Mr. M.'s leg was broken. Let this be a warning now to all Sabbath breakers. Don't go coon hunting but go to church on Sunday.

Mr. C. Garrett, of Paris, sold his fine gelding by "Indian Chief," to Charles Dalmer, of New York City, for $450. He also sold a fine black mare to a Virginian for a $300 cash.

Messrs. Veach & Hedges, of this county, has sold to Mr. J. J. Rodgers, of Bourbon county, 35 head of extra two-year old cattle for $66 per head.

Talk on Change.

The money market since our last has been more stringent at monetary at head centers, yet there is manifestly easing up with the money Kings in view of the "good time coming." There is not such a pressure upon the banks to obtain "filthy lucre" as was supposed there would be on the beginning of the new year. Our people, however, are still pressed in consequence of not realizing a ready sale for their corn. If the corn, in the hands of the producer, was in market, and the "needful" in the pockets of the farming community it would pay many debts and make some folks, we wot of, crow for joy. We have no new feature to report as to the price of corn in this vicinity. It has declined five cents on the bushel at the river, with a dull market. We now quote it at sixty cents. Rye has also declined, and is dull, at $1.30. Wheat holds it own, and we don't change our last summary. It is held firmly at $1.75 to $2.15 per bushel.

Flour ranges from $7 to $10 for the best brands. Coffee and sugar remain about as we last quoted them. We omit the quotations. In rice there is slight improvement. We quote the best Louisiana at 9 cents and Carolina at 11-12 cents per pound.

There was a brisk demand for poultry early in the week. We quote live chickens at $3.50 per dozen, and dressed at $4. Dressed turkeys at 12 and 14 cents per pound.

The upward movement in cotton has caused a firmer feeling in the market for cotton yarns, and led to some improvement in the demand. We quote assorted Nos. at 38 and 40 cts., carpet warp at 38 and 40 cts., wicking at 38 and 40 cts., covered yarn at 40 and 42 cts., batting at 28 and 33 cts.

The best coal oil at 30 cts. per gallon. It retails in Cynthiana at 60 cts. per gallon. We quote common cattle at $3.75 and $4.00, good at $5 and $5.50, prime at $5.75 and $6.25, per cental, gross. Sheep are coming forward more freely. They are selling at $2.50 and $3.50 per cental, gross, for common to good. Hogs have been only moderate. We quote sales at $9.40 and $9.75 gross. Heavy average would command $10 and $10.25.

A friend of ours, a distiller, complained to us that the hogs which he was slopping at his whisky mill were eating each others tails off. Another friend observed that that was not extraordinary for a drunken hog, as a drunken man behaved so outrageously oftentimes that he lost not only his tail but his head also.

Joe Coleman, a colored boy, broke into the storehouse of Webster & Hodges, on Pike street, on Thursday night, December 24th, 1868, and stole a pistol and other valuables. He was caught, put in jail, but is now out on bail.

We understand that our friend J. W. Musselman, of this county proposes to sell his farm and move to Missouri. This is considered the finest farm in the county, and such an opportunity is seldom offered to land purchasers. WANTED.—A white girl about 13 or 20 years of age, who would like to find a pleasant home, or in need of a place can hear of a good opportunity on application at this office. Dec21-1f

We need a Deposit Bank in Cynthiana, and as several gentlemen have been discussing the matter, let them bring their ideas to business, and apply for a charter at once.

Our friend Williman, has removed from Cynthiana, to Mr. W. Taylors' where we understand he will remain during the whiskey making season.

281 East 31st Street, New York. DEAR SIR:—For three weeks past I have been using your PLANTATION BITTERS. For more than four months past I have been suffering from what my doctor said was nervous prostration, being unable to endure hardly any physical or mental labor without great fatigue. But I had not used the bitters a week before I was conscious of their benefitting me as nothing else had, and I have continued to gain very rapidly since, till now I am able to be about my usual household duties. To all who are afflicted with general debility I can testify from experience that the Bitters are invaluable. Yours, truly, MARGARET B. STONE.

Exuberant Health.

It is a blessing vouchsafed to few. Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precautions necessary to preserve these precious endowments. Indeed, as a rule, the more healthy and robust a man is, the more he is inclined to take his health for granted. It is some consolation to the naturally weak and feeble to know that they can be so invigorated and built up, by a proper use of the means which science has placed at their disposal, as to have a much better chance of a long life and exemption from disease and pain, than the most athletic of their fellows who are foolish enough to suppose themselves invulnerable, and act accordingly. It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world, and an occasional savage, are enabled to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions, in fact, a pure, wholesome, invigorating tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy millions, and they have the article in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a stimulant medicine, i. e. it imparts permanent strength to weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions. Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased. Competitive preparations have been introduced, and, as far as the public is concerned, it is all one name, the love of rivalry; but they have all either perished in the attempt, or been left far in the rear. It has been the greatest medical success of the present century, and it is quite certain that no proprietary medicine in this country is as widely known, or as generally used. This lightening process is running incessantly (Sundays excepted), the whole year around, and it is quite certain that no proprietary medicine in this country is as widely known, or as generally used. BANKRUPTCY.

NOTICE.—This is to give notice that on the 15th day of December, 1868, a warrant in bankruptcy was issued against the estate of Robert G. Butler, of Oldville, in the county of Harrison and State of Kentucky, who has been adjudged a bankrupt on his own petition, that the payment of any debts and delivery of any property belonging to said bankrupt to his creditors, and for the payment of any and all debts to him are to be made by the said Robert G. Butler, or his assigns, by the payment of the creditors of said bankrupt, to prove their debts, and choose one or more assignees of his estate, will be held at a court of bankruptcy, to be held at 284 and 286 South street, Covington, Ky., before Judge W. F. Phelps, Register, on the 15th day of January, 1869, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Valuable Town Lots FOR SALE.

I WILL offer for sale on MONDAY, January 11, 1869, it being county court day, if not sold privately before, six valuable building lots on Pike street, opposite the Smith House, to-wit: 4 lots 25 feet front by 101 feet deep, 1 lot 25 feet front by 104 feet deep, 1 lot 30 feet front by 104 feet deep. The 1st named lot fronts on K. & R. R. 104 feet and is one of the most desirable lots in the city for a large commercial house. I will also sell, at the same time and place No. 1, a hay and stock scale that I will warrant to be in a weighing condition, and to stand the test of the standard weights of Kentucky.

I have also one of the best and finest Rosewood Pianos in the country, that I will sell privately, as I have no use for it, and will give the purchaser a bargain, as I purchased very low and will sell low. I have used it in my hotel for over two years, and it is now in use every day, and it has never required a tuning except once, to be used on it, which is of itself the best recommendation of its being a fine instrument. CYNTHIANA NEWS.

CYNTHIANA, KY., Jan. 7, 1869.

LOCAL MATTER.

Next Monday is county court day in Cynthiana.

C. B. Cook is adding another story to his Whiskey Ware house.

Master Walter Matlack, son of the Mail Messenger, broke his ankle last Saturday.

We regret to learn that our friend J. W. McIntosh, formerly of this city, was recently burned out in Cincinnati. He was insured.

R. S. Grimes has been appointed constable vice F. Tevboth in the Clintonville precinct, Bourbon county.

Herman Ross is about to establish a large Coal Yard, near Pleasant street, on the Railroad in this city.

T. R. Rankin, Esq., has removed to his farm near Lair's Station. He will sell some town lots next Monday.

Paul King says that out of 50 stand of bees he has but one or two swarms left. Can any body furnish a remedy for the bees—they die.

A most contemptible act has been perpetrated upon the sign over H. Cox's store. We hardly believed that we had an individual in Cynthiana capable of so low an act.

A long switch has been added to the Railroad at Lair's Station, for the benefit of shippers. The increase of business at that Station is very great.

Wm. E. Glave, has been appointed constable in this precinct, vice Thos. Wherritt. Mr. Glave is an efficient officer, and will please the people.

The people at Centerville Bourbon county, have organized a debating society and elected Elder R. M. Gano, President. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend, and hope to be on hand when least expected.

On Monday last Mr. Anderson Stewart, while removing some whiskey from his warehouse in this city, received a serious injury by the falling of the skid with two barrels upon it, down on his left foot, mashing and mangling bone and flesh terribly.

NOT A DRINKIST.—Mr. F. Remington, recently invited Mr. James Megibben to take a drink with him. Mr. M., very respectfully replied that, "His business was to make whiskey and other peoples' to drink it."

The following persons from Harrison county filed petitions in Bankruptcy in the Registers office in Covington, the last days of December, R. T. Whitteker, Joseph L. Taylor, Alfred S. Bryson, R. H. Collier.

It will be seen by a notice in another column, that our friend Alex. Williamson, Esq., has purchased the boot and shoe establishment of J. W. Lacy, in this city. Mr. W. is a sober, honest, hard working business man, and we hope he may succeed in this new enterprise.

During Christmas week, we were presented by Mr. Juett, grocery merchant on Pike street, in this city, with one bottle of pure old Bourbon Whisky. To say that it was good would be an insult to the bottle and to the giver—therefore we will say "it was so pecter as good." Mr. J., is assisted by Mr. Hogg, in dealing out groceries to their customers—we hope they may have plenty of them.

Two young men living in Sharpsburg, Ky., named Sharpe and Taylor were on a spree on Christmas day; and each feeling more than usually brave bantered the other to die with him. Whereupon they stepped out doors and fired at each other three shots across the street; and both were killed.

The Sunday Schools of this city are not as flourishing as they have been, we regret to confess.—There is nothing that will benefit a community like schools of this kind, and it should be the especial business of every man, who has a family of boys and girls, to go with them, and encourage the building up of schools of this character. Let us have Sunday Schools.

Whisky Trade.

G. R. Sharp's distillery starts up to-day. His brand is inferior to none, for none make better whisky. He will mash about 200 bushels per day.

Grey & Craig have commenced business, and will make a thousand barrels this season.

Reynolds & Todd recently sold 1000 barrels rye whisky for $1, 10 per gallon—and 500 bbls., corn whisky for 1, 00 per gallon—as we learn from our friend Benj. Fish-back.

Walker & Marshall will start up this month.

Peck & Vanhook's new establishment is progressing to completion rapidly.

J. H. Lair's copper distillery will be finished in a few weeks.

During the holidays, the young people of this city amused themselves exceedingly dancing the merry hours away. On Christmas eve a "Social Masquerade," came off at the Smith House, and the tendance was very large. It has been many years since we met as gay an assembly, in this city, and none that passed off any smoother.

The young ladies were handsomely masqued, and so well disguised that the sharpest observers were unable to discover the identity of but few in the room. The young men were gaily attired, representing Hamlet, King Richard, and Romeo. Taking it altogether, we were pleased exceedingly much, and especially so because our guest, Col. Craddock, of the Kentuckian, was there undisguised. "We knew him well"—we knew him from the twinkle of his eye—that step—that hat—could not be disguised.

The dance passed off in splendid style. Mr. Smith furnished the party with substantial refreshments, gotten up by his excellent lady.—These people can keep Hotel.

Saxton's Band furnished the music, and none better could be found in the State. The youth and beauty, of Harrison, danced until the dawn of day had nearly broke.

Fire.—On Thursday Morning, the 24th ult., about 1-2 past 2 o'clock, the carpenter shop of J. M. Dill, on Walnut street, was discovered on fire. The night was cold and the wind blew strong and fierce from the southwest—a light snow had fallen which had covered the face of the earth, and presented to the individual awaking at the hour of the night when the fire broke out a rather cold invitation to venture out. Nevertheless, a large number of our people turned out, and succeeded in keeping the flames from spreading further than to destroy Mr. Allens blacksmith shop on the south, and Mr. Geo. Herr's shop on the north side. Mr. Dill, we understand was insured for two thousand dollars in a Louisville Company.—We are not able to say how much loss has been sustained by any of the sufferers. Mr. Herr has already commenced rebuilding his shop, and so has Mr. Allen. This is an age of progress, and men do not and will not stand still.

The Newport Amateur Club performed at Reneker Hall, in this city on the night of the 29th of December, 1868, to a large and respectable audience. The young gentlemen acquitted themselves handsomely; and Gerald, the Irish landholder and peasant guide, done the witty Irishman up in splendid style, and the Dutch Major was not the entire dutchman, but approximated near to it. Master Joseph Mohr, son of J. Mohr, of Newport, Secretary of the Clay Fire and marine Insurance company, sung "Wearing of the Green," in fine style. Father M—— of Newport, and Father Smith were present. The affair passed off in good style, for which we are indebted to the energy and enterprise of Father Brantz.

Walter Hawkins, recently of Dr. Reneker's Drug Store, has purchased the interest of Benj. Day, Esq., in the firm of Boggs & Day, carriage and wagon makers in this city. We hope the new firm will have great good luck and plenty of business.

Mr. H. Kassan, is located in Covington, No. 20 Pike street, and manufactures and keeps for sale a splendid assortment of Boots and Shoes, from the coarsest to the finest quality. He is a kind hearted gentleman, and will take pains in waiting upon ladies and gentlemen, who may honor him with a call.

CYNTHIANA, KY., Dec. 30, 1868.

DISSOLUTION.
We, the undersigned, by mutual consent, have this day dissolved the partnership formerly existing between us, J. W. Lacy carrying on the business.
Attest:
J. W. LACY,
Wm. M. HOVER, T. D. WOODWARD.

CYNTHIANA, Dec. 30, 1868.
This is to certify that I have this day sold my entire stock of goods, including accounts, the least shoeing counters, saw cases and everything pertaining to the boot and shoe manufacture, to A. W. Williamson.
Attest:
J. W. LACY,
WILLIAM M. HOVER,
C. A. WEBSTER, Jr.

From the above it will be seen that the accounts are payable to me. I hope, therefore, that each individual will come forward and settle immediately. This will save time and trouble, and unless attention is given to this notice by those concerned the accounts will be placed in the hands of an officer for collection.
A. WILLIAMSON.

N. B.—As a reminiscence of the past, the spot upon which this house now stands was occupied by me for four years in the official capacity of Postmaster for this community. I believe I gave pretty general satisfaction. If you will be kind enough to favor me with your patronage in my new enterprise as honesty and fair dealing is to be my motto, you will never have cause to regret your small favors to the old Postmaster.
Respectfully,
A. WILLIAMSON.

Married.

THE BEST

BUSINESS LOCATION

IN PARIS,

For Sale at Auction!

AT 11 o'clock, on Saturday, January 30th, 1869, we will offer for sale at public auction,

Our Business House,

Located on Main street, Paris, Kentucky. This house is the old stand of Garrett, Spears & Co., has a high reputation long and well sustained, and a custom which cannot be alienated. It is one of the finest locations in this section of the State, and sells from seventy-five to one hundred thousand dollars worth of dry goods per annum. The house is a substantial two-story brick, 25 ft. 108 ft., with a large sky-light—upper room same length as lower, and both lighted with gas.

The lot runs through from Main to Pleasant street, and is occupied in the rear by a brick warehouse capable of storing 500 barrels of whiskey. Both houses have recently been put in thorough repair, and the whole presents an opportunity to any enterprising business man, which is rarely to be found in this country.
Terms made known on day of sale.
